SVL Season 9 Is Underway

Season 9 is officially underway. There are a handful of new owners in the league this year and will be interesting to see how well their teams can perform. Many veterans are back as well. How will Matt Mayr's Cordova Commandos do as defending champs. Can the Hungry Hippos of Hungary bring home a title for Mitchell Sherman? How about 2 time SVL Champ Brad Kruse's Deadwood Outlaws squad? Hopefully it will be an exciting season with a thrilling finish in June. Remember owners, it is a marathon, not a sprint to the finish line!

Predictions From the Sandlot

Sandlot analyst Buster Gammons has released his preseason picks for the upcoming season:

Cy Young: Josh Johnson, Taylor

MVP: Adrian Gonzalez, Walla Walla

Rookie Owner of the Year: David Naughtin

Biggest Turnaround by a return owner: Jared Hartman

Most Likely to win 100 games: Haiti

Page 2 of the SVL Newsletter will always take a closer look at a theme or an individual part of the Organization. The first issue takes a look at team salaries. Enjoy.

SVL 9 Team Salaries

It is always interesting to look at how much money an owner is spending on his team. I realize that owners in the SVL simply draft their team without knowledge of what players are making financially, but here is the breakdown. Surprisingly, the Stockholm Mad Men have the highest payroll, while Walla Walla is hardly breaking any banks for their team. 11 teams have a salary over the league average of 102+ Million.

Rank	Team	Salary	Rank	Team	Salary
1	Stockholm Mad Men	173,659,000	13	Taylor Gang	100,164,000
2	Djibouti Big Booties	156,897,000	14	Deadwood Outlaws	98,536,000
